About Our Wine Program

Carefully curating a list that offers wines to all palates is important to us. We enjoy terroir driven wines. What does that mean? We like wines that indicate and demonstrate the unique landscape and quality of the place that they are from. These are often unadulterated wines; we like to think of them as “minimal intervention” wines. From grape to bottle, any number of things can be “done” to other wines to alter its flavor, aromatics, and overall aesthetic. We do not prefer these wines, the more a wine is manipulated, the further it is removed from its place of origin.

“Wine should be a pure reflection of its soils and of the entirety of its environment.

We should question everything that takes us further away from that fact.” Nicolas Joly, Coulée de Serrant
